REALISTIC
REALISTIC people deal with things more than ideas or people. They like working with their hands, physical activity, and often in outdoor working environments.

Accounting
Applied Computer Technology
Forestry
Horticulture
Mechanical Engineering
Construction Management

Agricultural Education
Engineering Options
Geology
Landscape Horticulture/Architecture
Natural Resource Majors
Health and Exercise Science

Animal Science
Equine Science
Soil and Crop Science
Health and Exercise
Art

INVESTIGATIVE
INVESTIGATIVE people are analytically, disciplined, curious, and cope with life and its challenges through intelligence and rational problem solving. They also may enjoy classes or activities involving charts, graphs, numbers or formulas.

Agricultural Economics
Biochemistry
Chemical Engineering
Computer Engineering
Computer Science
Electrical Engineering
Environmental Health
Fishery Biology
Liberal Arts: Social Sciences
Rangeland Ecology

Animal Science
Biological Science
Civil Engineering
Computer Information Systems
Economics
Environmental Engineering
Equine Science
Nutrition and Food Science
Philosophy
Biomedical Sciences

Economics
Sociology
Physics
Zoology

Microbiology
Management
Chemistry
Anthropology

Psychology
Mathematics

ARTISTIC
ARTISTIC people rely on feelings and imagination more than facts and perceive self as expressive, original, intuitive, non-conforming, introspective and independent.

Art
Communication
Interior Design
Languages

English
Theatre
Music
Dance

Journalism and Technical
Teacher Licensure
Apparel and Merchandising
Landscape Architecture/Horticulture
SOCIAL
SOCIAL people are interested in helping and working with others. They are sensitive to and concerned about the needs of others. Adjectives such as enthusiastic, insightful, cooperative, and generous are often used to describe them. They value social issues and interpersonal relations over mechanical or scientific pursuits.

| Family and Consumer Sciences | Health and Exercise Science |
| History | Human Development and Family Studies |
| Natural Resources Recreation and Tourism | Philosophy |
| Political Science | Psychology |
| Restaurant and Resort Management | Social Work |
| Sociology | Other Liberal Arts Majors |
| Ethnic Studies | International Studies |

ENTERPRISING
ENTERPRISING people are adventurous, dominant, persuasive, and action oriented. They perceive themselves as self-confident, popular, and social. Possessing strong verbal and leadership skills, they are often successful in obtaining organizational, economic, or political goals.

| Agricultural Business | Apparel and Merchandising |
| Business Administration | Marketing |
| Communication Studies | Restaurant and Resort Management |
| Finance and real Estate | Journalism (Public Relations) |
| Natural Resource Recreation and Tourism | Applied Computing Technology |
| Construction Management | Economics |
| Business minor | Natural Resource Management |

CONVENTIONAL
CONVENTIONAL people are practical, neat, organized, and work well in structured situations. They prefer work environments with clear chains of command. This trait complements others when choosing a major or career and may not be the dominant factor in the decision.

| Accounting | Apparel and Merchandising |
| Art (Education) | Business Administration |
| Health and Exercise Science | Sociology |
| History (Social Sciences Education) | Mathematics |
| Political Science | Nutrition and Food Science |

Please note that this assessment is best used to help students begin to explore majors and most useful when discussed with an advisor. There is no assessment that can decide which major is best for you. For additional resources visit: undeclared.casa.colostate.edu.